PROGRAM NOTES

In the final days of November, as the nights grew longer and the vicious north winds began to pound the embattled city, the kingdom was rapidly nearing its darkest hour. As enemy forces threatened from every side, the exhausted council gathered in the great hall for one final desperate meeting. With all hope waning, all other options exhausted, and one last chance to save his people, the king summoned all remaining forces and invoked The Seventh Resolution.

NOTES TO THE CONDUCTOR

The opening measures (1–19) should be performed in a very somber and sorrowful manner.

Measures 20 and 21 (and all similar spots) must be sharply accented, emphatic, and dramatic.

At measure 28, the clarinet section should be encouraged to play boldly and with good air support as they perform this chalumeau register passage.

At measure 44, the tempo must remain the same, even though the dynamic level is now mp. All players should concentrate on tempo, playing smoothly, and maintaining good air support throughout.

Measures 60–74 contain several examples of dynamic fluctuation. All players should focus on the crescendo-decrescendo sequences, and in properly supporting and executing the four-measure crescendo from piano to forte beginning at measure 70.

The section beginning at measure 98 should have a brooding, contemplative feel, and the two-measure crescendo leading into measure 106 should be very dramatic and unhurried.

The final section of the piece, measures 106–145, should be powerful, aggressive, and climactic.

Special note to the upper woodwinds regarding measure 144: the notation employed here is simply another way of indicating that this is a half-step trill (concert B \flat to concert B \natural).

Best wishes for a musical performance.
